URANIUM AND KNEELING ELEPHANTS

The facts of Charles Howe's life: He was born in Whiteside County, near Sterling, Illinois, on April 25, 1912. He received his B.A. from the University of Illinois, his M.A. from the University of Southern California, and did graduate work in English at the University of California at Los Angeles. He served with the 116th Anti-aircraft Battalion during World War II, and participated in the D-Day invasion of Normandy. Before coming to Danville Junior College in September of 1962, he taught at high schools in Wyoming, Nevada, Michigan, Iowa, and California. His name is included in DIRECTORY OF BRITISH AND AMERICAN WRITERS, 1971; PERSONALITIES OF THE WEST AND MIDWEST, 1971, 1973; ILLINOIS LIVES, 1969;

OUTSTANDING EDUCATORS, 1973; and the 1976 edition of NOTABLE AMERICANS OF THE BICENTENNIAL ERA. He was a member of a number educational and poetry societies and an officer of three writers' societies. He published two books - BLACK PANTHER SEARCH, in 1951; and URANIUM AND KNEELING ELEPHANTS, in 1973; plus numerous other poems, short stories, and book reviews in various publications. He died on September 21, 1975, at age 63.

The important matters of Charles Howe's life: He was a poet, a teacher, and a good friend to colleagues and students alike.

He is sadly missed by the Danville Junior College Community.

LIFE

"Life's Broncos"

Our lives have given nightmares we must ride
Where hands could grasp no pommel's steadying wood;
No leather cinch secured on bronco's hide
The saddle's strength for rides we understood.
Volcanic rage was snorting broken-time
And alien flesh was pounding earthquake
jolts;
Before the ride, we thought that hoofbeats
rime,
That bucking was a growing-game for colts.
Then any bridle on a bronco's head
Must seem to hold for him inaccurate bit;
The reins as routes for power of the mind were dead,
Upon such spasmed flesh no thought could fit.
We clutched his neck and clung to tossing
mane,
Were stoned to earth, were bronco-hoofed by pain.

STUDENTS

"Of Solid Song and Tears"

A veteran of Viet Nam, you come Into my class for meanings I might have;
Another source brings word one side
is numb,
For bullet near the brain I have no
salve.
Though I am veteran, too, no boobytrap
Has left a war's half-death for me to face;
I only feared the wound, you felt it snap.
You seek from possible paralysis a grace.
You seek sun-breath for senses in a school;
I learned pulse-gift is hung on slender thread,
But lack of messages of molecules
That sense Damoclean sword swing overhead.
Life-beauty? Faith? I would communicate
Some solid song among the tears of Fate.

POETRY

"Of Images and Balloons"

He sits
On his image;
Above him float balloons
Of rubber filled with gas; he pulls
The strings

THE WRITTEN WORD ANTHOLOGY, No. 8

"Of Longhand Song"

Why does my longhand seek so often print?
Profound ideas from my fingers
wayward trimble;
My wrist loops words that totter,
merely hint
The commonplace of me, I should be humble. . .
My hand writes waves that seek to sing
in books.

TIME

"Splintered Minutes"

My clock
Has splintered ticks,
Like cracking heated glass;
Unwinding spring or cogs of time
Are chipped.

INKY TRAILS (Idaho)

"Of Alphabets and Clocks"

B.C.
A.D. Jumbled
Are alphabets of time;
Hours tick from complex clocks, since you
Are gone.

FRESHMEN

My freshmen settle in. Achilles
sulks; Pascal consults
his watch; and true
Cordelia—with her just-washed hair,

stern-hearted princess, ready to de—fend

the meticulous garden of truths in her high-school notebook—
uncaps her ballpoint pen.
And the corridors drum:
give us a flourish, fluorescence of light, for the teachers come,

green and seasoned, bearers
of the Word, who differ
like its letters; there are some so wise their eyes
are birdbites; one

a mad, grinning gent with a golden tooth, God knows
he might be Pan, or the sub—custodian; another is a walking podium, dense with his mystery—high priests and attachés
of the ministry; kindly old women, like unfashionable water—ing places;
and the assuming young, rolled tight
as a City
umbrella;

thought-salesmen with sample cases,
and saints upon whom merely to gaze is like Sunday—
their rapt, bright,
cat-licked faces!

And the freshmen wait;
wait bristling, acned, glowing like a brand,
or easy, chatting, munching, muscles
lax,
each in his chosen corner, and in each
a chosen corner.

Full of certainties and reasons,
or uncertainties and reasons,
full of reasons as a conch contains the sea,
they wait; for the term's first bell;
for another mismatched wrestle through the year;
for a teacher who's religious in his art,
a wizard of a sort, to call the roll
and from mere names
cause people
to appear.

The best look like the swinging door
to the opera just before the Marx Brothers break through.
The worst—debased,
on the back row,

as far as one can go from speech—
are walls where childish scribbling's
been erased;
are stones
to teach.

And I am paid to ask them questions:
Dare man proceed by need alone?
Did Esau like
his pottage?
Is any heart in order after Belsen?

And when one stops to think, I'll catch his heel, put scissors to him, excavate his chest!
Watch, freshmen, for my words about the past
can make you turn your back. I wait to throw,
most foul, most foul, the future in your face.

Mind and The Black Panther

Restless and wandering the mind goes
In forests where panther nuances lurk;
In formless trees fire-eyes are gleaming embryos
Of muscled question or possible answer's handiwork.

The forest is dark, the forest is deep,
The silken skin with claw and fang may perch,
But, oh, the golden eyes! . . . the mind can never sleep
While time and formless forests hold

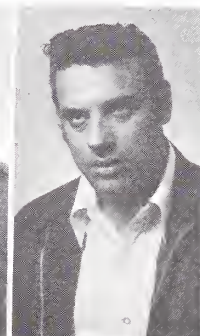

Black-panther-search.

An agnostic is a man who doesn't know whether there is a God or not, doesn't know whether he has a soul or not, doesn't know whether there is a future life or not, doesn't believe that anyone else knows any more about these matters than he does, and thinks it a waste of time to try to find out.

Who first said: "Of the people, by the people, for the people?" The first 99 persons out of 100 will reply, "Lincoln." And the 100th person will add, "in his Gettysburg Address."

The famous phrase is actually 578 years old, and once appeared in the Bible!

In John Wycliffe's introduction to his translation of the Bible, published in England in 1382, these words occur: "This Bible is for the Government of the People, by the People, and for the People."

you shall above all things be glad and young.
For if you're young, whatever life you wear

it will become you; and if you are glad whatever's living will yourself become.

A PROMISE FOR THE UNFORSEEN

A promise from me? That I cannot make Tomorrow drips dissolving chemicals into a flask,
Swings hammers that may bend the bars of promise; yet you ask
I guard what time might break.

You clock time to a half-day with twelve hours,
Ignore thirteen that restless futures hold in transient fogs,
For this minute manufacture tight-wound springs, close-fit cogs
To falsify time's powers.

FORWARD TO IS 5

"If a poet is anybody, he is somebody to whom things made matter very little—somebody who is obsessed by Making. Like all obsessions, the Making obsession has disadvantages; for instance, my only interest in making money would be to make it. Fortunately, however, I should prefer to make almost anything else, including locomotives and roses. It is with roses and locomotives (not to mention acrobats Spring electricity Coney Island the 4th of July the eyes of mice and Niagara Falls) that my "poems" are competing.

They are also competing with each other, with elephants, and with El Greco."

TWENTIETH CENTURY AMERICAN WRITING

THE SECRET SITS

We dance around in a ring and suppose,
But the Secret sits in the middle and knows.

—Robert Frost

FIRE AND ICE

Some say the world will end in fire,
Some say in ice.
From what I've tasted of desire
I hold with those who favor fire.
But if it had to perish twice,
I think I know enough of hate
To say that for destruction ice
Is also great
And would suffice.

—Robert Frost

(what if a much of a which of a wind)

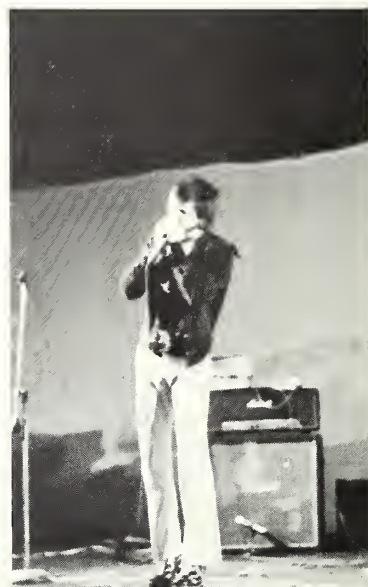

what if a much of a which of a wind
gives the truth to summer's lie;
bloodies with dizzying leaves the sun
and yanks immortal stars awry?
Blow king to beggar and queen to seem (blow friend to fiend: blow space to time)
—when skies are hanged and oceans drowned,
the single secret will still be man

what if a keen of a lean wind flays screaming hills with sleet and snow:
strangles valleys by ropes of thing
and stifles forests in white ago?
Blow hope to terror; blow seeing to blind (blow pity to envy and soul to mind)
—whose hearts are mountains, roots are trees, it's they shall cry hello to spring

what if a dawn of a doom of a dream bites this universe in two,
peels forever out of his grave
and sprinkles nowhere with me and you?
Blow soon to never and never to twice (blow life to isn't: blow death to was)
—all nothing's only our hugest home;
the most who die, the more we live

THE BAND: HORACE MONSTER

Subjects, from left to right:

Buddy McGrew, talented imitator of Elvis Presley and a female impersonator

Nora Coffman, the most confused subject

Liz Herzog, feeling an itch

Ruth Tanquary, who at one point thought she was a car

Rick Lenover, performer of a surprise strip-tease

Anita Winstead, who found herself "nude" in the middle of the Union

Garrett's Captive Audience, above

Liz Herzog listening to suggestion from hypnotist Larry Garrett, above

HE HELD THEM SPELLBOUND

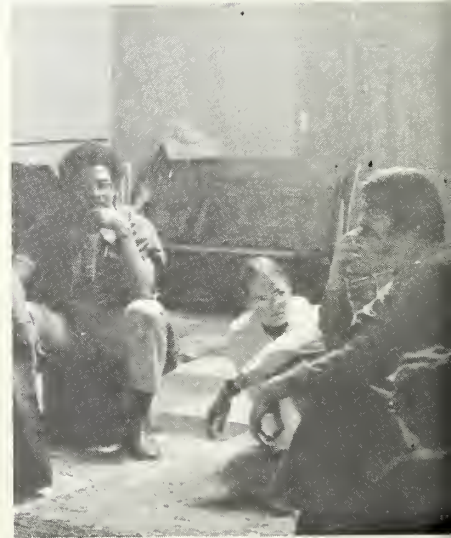

Hypnotist Larry Garrett visited Danville Junior College and some of the students will never be the same.

Garrett's demonstration of his hypnotic control over twelve volunteers (including several who, like Don Haberkorn and SAC President Tom Morgan, chickened out and left the stage) drew one of the biggest audiences of any first-semester Student Advisory Council sponsored daytime event. As watching students laughed helplessly, subjects on stage ate imaginary ice-cream cones, were pinched by imaginary hands every time they sat down, scrambled on the floor for imaginary money, looked for a treasure hidden in the audience, and itched in secret places in response to hypnotic suggestions.

CAMPUS LIGHT

The Campus Lighthouse, sponsored by the Christian Student Foundation, has provided many activities to the student body. Bible studies and fellowship meetings are held every Tuesday night.

Rod Lindsay,
Campus Minister

The Lighthouse also sponsored Ken Henderson's Danville appearances as well as a concert by SONRISE, an Indianapolis band. There have also been various parties and special luncheons to provide fellowship for any interested students.

KEN HENDERSON

Ken Henderson, youth evangelist from Lexington, Kentucky, presented programs in Danville during the Fall 1975 semester. He plays a variety of musical instruments during his performances; he also has a large repertoire of humorous anecdotes and poems. An afternoon program was presented on campus, and a second appearance was made at the campus lighthouse.
